

Do you consider it practical to include energy efficiency attributes in research artefact metadata?

$M = 3.4$,
 $Md = 4.0$

How feasible is it to report hardware/software/network context or specifications when publishing research?

$M = 4.2$,
 $Md = 5.0^{}$

